

College of Humanities

JAPAN FOUNDATION 国際交流基金

INTERDISCIPLINARY EDO:

Towards an Integrated Approach to Learning and Teaching Early Modern Japan

This workshop seeks to bring together scholars from across the United States, Japan and Europe to think across conventional disciplinary boundaries toward an integrated approach to Japan's early modern period. By taking historical, religious, literary, art historical, and a variety of other perspectives into account, we hope to create a productive forum for a new, transdisciplinary conversation on political formation, social interaction, and cultural proliferation under the Great Peace of the Tokugawa regime.

DATE: FRIDAY, MAY 6, 2022

TIME: 9:00 am - 3:30 pm

LOCATION: ENR2, Rm. S215

FREE & OPEN TO THE PUBLIC; LUNCH PROVIDED

SEE THE COMPLETE SCHEDULE: edojapan.arizona.edu

Sponsored by the generous support from:
Japan Foundation, The University of Arizona College of Humanities and the Department of East Asian Studies